COLLECTION, DISPLAY AND MANAGEMENT OF NATIVE AMERICAN ARTIFACTS,
by Terry Crannell, 2 April, 2014

Mr. Crannell has searched most of Dorchester County for many years to find arrow heads and other Native American artifacts. He is the Curator of the Dorchester County Historical Society's extensive collection of Native American artifacts, most of which were found by several collectors in Dorchester County.

In his talk, Terry discussed some of the history of how these artifacts originated and where they have been found locally. He also discussed the Federal Laws covering the finding and keeping of Native American artifacts and some recent experiences in this regard.
